

FORMER RESIDENT DIED AT FARMDALE

W. F. WOODFORD, WHO RESID-ED IN PENSACOLA, AND WHO WAS A CARPENTER BY TRADE,
EXPIRED IN BAY COUNTY.

Monday night's train brought from Farmdale, Bay County, Fla., the remains of W. F. Woodford, aged 76 years, who had died in Bay county the day before from an attack of paralysis. The remains were interred yesterday afternoon at St. John's cemetery, a few relatives and friends being in attendance.

This aged man at one time resided in Pensacola, and while here followed the carpentry trade. At one time he operated the planing machine in the DeSilva mills, after the Saunders property, north of the city had been taken over by the latter interests.

For the past few years, however, deceased had been residing at Farmdale, in Bay county, Fla., and it was in that place that his death occurred, following an attack of paralysis, a couple of days ago. The body was accompanied here by H. A. Allan.
